The Code of Hammurabi

KING OF BABYLON ABOUT 2250 B.C.

Edited by ROBERT FRANCIS HARPER

THIS Code of Laws, the oldest known to man, was discovered only a few years ago. King Hammurabi collected the laws as they were administered in the Babylonian courts, attached his own name to this first written code, promulgated it as the law of the land, and thus fixed judicial procedure not only for his own time, but for all succeeding centuries of Babylonian national existence. No more important document has come down to us; in it are reflected the customs, morals, religion, business relations, in short the whole Weltanschauung of the ancient Babylonians. The fact that the book is now in its second edition attests the popular favor accorded to this adequate English version of the laws.
